

Moving Pods: Whats so Great About it?

Technology has brought in a Revolution in Military Affairs (RMA), a similar term can be coined for the transportation industry where technology has indeed introduced a Revolution in Transportation Affairs (RTA). RTA has been made possible due to the human spirit of innovation in combination with technology giving rise to the concept of Moving Pods. What are Moving Pods? Well they are mini truck sized containers which come in different sizes having appropriate volume to store household items of a one bedroom house, two bedroom houses, three bedroom houses or a mansion. The containers are literally like pods, small, convenient and deliverable at the clients doorstep. Technology is used in the pods to make them completely scalable with adjustable racks and securing arrangements with ergonomically designed low floor space for ease of access. Like a pod, they are self contained units which can be customized to the customers requirements.

The terms and conditions for loading and unloading are flexible and hassle free. The self sustenance even covers ready to use cardboard boxes, Styrofoam sheets, bubble plastic and other forms of packing material which are of suitable size to fit the items as well as the pod and provide foolproof safety during transportation. Pods are customizable across the entire range of items to be moved from household good to office cubes. Climate controlled pods are also available for those who require environment controls for sensitive equipment, items or precious cargo of wines during the move. Moving Pods can also be configured to carry boats, cars, garage equipment, in fact just about anything. The customer can also track the route of his items as most companies providing these services use the latest GPS tracking technology and RFID tags to keep track of each and every pod on the move.

Moving Pods is a unique concept as it addresses twin issues of Moving and Storing. Thus they are variously called as Self Storage solutions also. The storage option is available to those customers who need time to find new residence or new offices wherein the pods can be stored away in accident and theft proof secure company warehouses. Companies providing these services provide requisite insurance so in addition to physical safety, legal safety is also ensured. Moving Pods have come in a big way in United States, Canada and Europe. The companies not only offer services within the country but also for overseas moves. The sheer convenience and competitive pricing have made Moving Pods a concept which is likely to become the standard form of transportation model the world over.

About the Author

More sites about self-storage, goto storagesolutionstoday.blogspot.com.

Source: <http://learnitarticles.com>